Hello, Mother!

—These two words gladdened the heart of Mrs. Julia Lopes of Kingston when they fell from the lips of her five-year-old daughter, Alice, over whom she bends in the above picture. For Alice has lain in a coma with the rare post-infectious encephalitis for 14 days. When she was first taken to the Haynes Memorial Hospital in Brighton doctors feared she would not live. Through nasal feeding, as shown, Alice is showing improvement. (Page 11.)

JAP CHIEFS WEIGH WAR ON RUSSIA

TOKYO, June 27 (INS)—An extraordinary conference of Japanese army and navy leaders was held in Tokyo today following a gigantic aerial battle on the frontier of Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia in which 98 out of an attacking force of 200 Russian war planes were shot down.

The War Minister reviewed the situation in detail, and although no announcement was forthcoming, the conference was regarded as indicative of a tense military situation.

A war office communique meanwhile stated that the Soviets had lost 265 planes during the last six weeks in clashes with the Japanese. Today's battle resulted from information that the Soviets planned a raid on important points in Manchukuo.

Afterward, according to official accounts, Japanese planes pursued the fleeing Soviet fleet to its base and there destroyed 30 more planes.

The Japanese official statement follows:

"This morning's aerial battle over Lake Buir which resulted in a loss of more than 98 planes for the Soviet and Outer Mongolian air force started auspiciously for the Japanese air force, which had received information of a planned raid on Manchukuo territory to bomb important points.

GREATEST AIR BATTLE

"The Japanese air force challenged the raiders and dealt them a heavy blow. More than 200 Soviet and Outer Mongolian planes had massed at the Tamsk and Madat air fields in preparation for a raid on Manchukuo at dawn.

"This compelled the Japanese air force to stand by and take action.

"Simultaneously, Japanese bombers took off from their base and attacked Tamsk to destroy the outer Mongolian air base there.

"It is our trust that this crush-

DUKE AND DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

Exile in France Near End, London Hears

DUKE, WALLY WILL RETURN TO BRITAIN

LONDON, June 27 (AP)—Lord Beaverbrook's London Evening Standard, usually well informed about the Duke of Windsor's plans, said today the Duke and Duchess had decided to return to England next October to take up residence here.

The Standard's story, published in late afternoon editions, said also it was possible that the former King Edward VIII and his American-born wife would visit the United States next year.

Lord Beaverbrook's Standard and his morning paper, the Daily Express, long have carried on a campaign for the return of the Duke of Windsor to England, which he last saw immediately after his abdication December 11, 1936, to marry the former Wallis Simpson.

Lord Beaverbrook and some members of his staff are personal friends of the duke.

LIKELY TO VISIT U. S.

Without giving the source of its information, the Standard said:

"The duke and duchess of Windsor have decided to return to England.

"They will arrive in October and take up residence here. There is no question of their obtaining permission.

"As British citizens, the duke and duchess are free to come and go as they please.

"The duke has for some time past resolved not to insist on the granting of the title royal highness to the duchess.

"It is probable that they will

Saltonstall's Tax Bill Backed by Long As Aid to Realty

Painting a dire picture of the plight of real estate in Massachusetts, official proponents of Governor Saltonstall's ten-point tax increase program today urged its adoption without change before the joint legislative Committee on Ways and Means.

Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long led the fight, as the committee considered clauses in the program relating to inheritance and income taxes.

Opponents of the measures are to be heard later.

Both Long and Representative H. M. Gott, chairman of the House Tax Committee, urged adoption of the program in toto.

Recommendations under consideration and the amount they are expected to yield were:

1—Removal of all exemptions from net incomes over $5000; $750,000 this year and 1940.

2—Broadening the income tax base by lowering the exemption of single persons from $2000 to $1400 and for married persons from $2500 to $2000; $4,000,000 in 1940. (Would not go into effect this year.)

3—Increased tax on income, both high and low, from 1½ to 2½ per cent this year, with a drop to 2 per cent in 1940; $3,500,000 this year and $1,750,000,000 in 1940.

4—Continuation of the present surtax; $4,000,000 each year.

5—Increase in the surtax on interest and dividends from 10 to 20 per cent this year, with a drop to 15 per cent in 1940; $1,800,000 this year and $900,000 next year.

Representative Gott stated that one-third of the real estate in the state is in danger of foreclosure, and predicted that wholesale foreclosures would sweep the Commonwealth if the burden on this class of property is not lightened.

Office-Wife Case Nearing Jury

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—Testimony in the larceny trial of Mrs. Lillian Schrein, "office wife," accused of the theft of $60,000 from Martin Beck, 71, her uncle by marriage and former employer, was completed today after the theatrical producer had categorically denied intimacies with her.

Counsel will sum up tomorrow, and the case is expected to go to the jury on Thursday.

Beck denied, too, as Mrs. Schrein had contended, that the money she is charged with taking was in reality "gifts" from the producer.

He also denied that he told a friend, Abraham Feist, that Mrs. Schrein "is too expensive for you to have as a secretary," when Feist proposed taking the woman from the Beck organization.

The producer said he had attended horse races with Mrs. Schrein, but denied he had been her partner in betting.

INDICTMENT OF POLITICIAN NEAR IN PARDON INQUIRY

At least one indictment, naming a prominent city politician of that county, is expected to be returned by the Middlesex county grand jury which today sat again in special session in connection with the state probe of pardons and paroles.

District Attorney Robert F. Bradford, although admitting that he called the grand jury to consider one phase of the pardon investigation, has declined to comment further.

It is understood, however, that at least one official of the county is under fire in connection with a pardon and that the expected indictment would result from his own admissions.

The surprise call for the grand jury came as the result of a secret session held by the special legislative commission named to probe pardons granted under Governors Hurley, Curley, Ely and Allen.

Answering an "invitation," former Governor Ely announced he was ready to appear before the legislative commission at the State House today.

His readiness was expressed in answer to a request from the inquisitors for explanations by former governors concerning certain pardons granted during their administrations. Also asked to volunteer explanations were members of executive councils who approved them.

Former Governor Hurley now is enroute to Ireland and both former Governors Curley and Allen were out of town on business.

Appearing before the grand jurors yesterday were state police who have headed investigation of pardons and paroles granted in the last four administrations, the stenographer and the attorney for the legislative commission, and several witnesses, known to have been interviewed by them.

Lieut. Detective Joseph Crescio, state police "ace" assigned to the pardons probe commission, who recently made a trip to Florida to bring back Raymond Patriarca, was one of the witnesses called before the session.

The pardon of Patriarca, after serving only 84 days of a three to five year term was one of those leading to the legislative probe, along with the pardon of John Tartar, killer of a girl, who has fled the country.

Lieutenant Detective Joseph Ferrari, head of the investigators into pardons, followed Crescio into the grand jury room, and was the last witness called before adjournment until today.

Two Jockeys Fined In Fight Over Girls

A wild midnight melee in Beachmont, involving two noted Suffolk Downs jockeys and two young Beachmont girls, had its aftermath in Chelsea court today.

The jockeys, including Eddie Robart, 20, ace rider of this year's racing season at Suffolk, were accused of having brought a race track gang to beat up five Beachmont youths.

The youths allegedly incurred the ire of the jockeys by "rescuing" two girls who were in a parked auto with the Suffolk riders.

Witnesses testified the jockeys drove away, but returned with three auto loads of stable roustabouts.

The gang then proceeded to give the Beachmont boys, including the brother of one of the girls in the case, a savage beating with fists, clubs and boots, the still-battered victims told the court.

JOCKEYS ARE FINED

According to the witnesses, Jockey Robart did not take an active part in the affray, but sat in the seat of his car, cheering on the Suffolk Downs attackers.

Judge Paul J. MacDonald found Robart guilty of disturbing the peace and fined him $100.

The other jockey, Paul Maloney, 22, was found guilty on five counts of assault and battery. He also was fined $100.

Witnesses said he joined in the melee and kicked one of the victims after the latter had been knocked down in the fighting.

Named as a third defendant in the case was a Suffolk Downs exercise boy, Roy Lambert, 23. He failed to appear in court and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest.

Listed as the victims in the rough and tumble were Norman Doyle, William Rice, Paul Nichols, John Scully and George LeBlanc, all about 19 or 20 years old and all of Beachmont.

SCREAMED FOR HELP

According to their testimony, Doyle's sister was one of the girls in the auto with the jockeys.

Resenting the attentions of the riders, the girls screamed for help and tried to get out of the car, the Beachmont youths said.

Although Robart and Maloney pleaded not guilty, they paid their fines and did not appeal.

HELD FOR TRIAL—Mrs. Helen Madden of Roslindale, mother of four children, who was held for trial today in West Roxbury court on desertion charge. She was taken into custody at Old Orchard, Me., and returned here. Sorry for act, she begs to have her children back.

RUNAWAY MOTHER OF 4 WEEPS BITTERLY IN JAIL

Into a jail cell today went the 21-year-old Mattapan mother, accused of abandoning the four children and the husband for whom she had been attempting to keep a home on $13.50 a week, welfare money.

Arraigned in West Roxbury court, Mrs. Helen Madden, whose school graduation present was a marriage certificate when she was only 16, made no plea to the desertion charge.

She was held in $500 bail and in default was sent to Charles Street Jail to await a hearing Friday.

At the same time a charge of neglect of the four small children—Helen, 4; Joan, 3; Loretta, 2, and William, Jr., 9 months — will be heard against the husband, who was arrested after police broke into the flat in Canterbury street, Mattapan, and found the children alone.

The husband is free on $500 personal recognizance. His case was originally set for July 7, but Judge Daniel W. Casey today moved it up to next Friday, when the entire matter will be heard.

Remorseful and in tears—begging for the return of the four babies—the girl pleaded after her arrest that she had not neglected her little brood, which police allege were left alone and without food for many hours.

"I did all I could for them," she cried.

She told Detectives Lillian Taylor and Joseph McGovern who took her to Station 19 that she had hitch-hiked rides in two trucks and three motor cars to Old Orchard on the way to Greenville, Me., to seek the aid of her mother. She said her mother and a friend were willing to take care of the babies.

"My husband lost his job," she said, "and since then we have been getting $13.50 a week on welfare. The sheriff took away all the furniture we had when we lived in Roxbury. Then we moved to Canterbury street, where all we had was a bed, crib, a table and three chairs."

39 VICE SUSPECTS IN LINEUP

Taken in Boston's largest vice roundup in years, 35 girls and women and four men were marched in sordid parade under the spotlights of the police headquarters "lineup" room today.

Alleged vice-racket victims, including one man who reported he was robbed of $1500 by a girl he met on a South End street, failed to appear as identifying witnesses.

But police said they would put at least a dozen of the suspects before court on vice charges and would warn others taken in the roundup, to get out of the city.

Three of the girls held were arrested in a raid on an alleged "strip tease" show staged before a stag party gathering in a building in Harrison avenue, South End.

The other girls and women and the four men were taken in custody on streets of the South End and the hotel and theatrical district.

Tar and Feathered Count Presses Prosecution

WARRENTON, Va., June 27—Answering a defense attorney assertion that there is "a 50-50 chance" that the case would be quashed, Eleanor M. Patterson today threw the full weight of her Washington newspaper's support behind its society columnist who was tarred and feathered early Sunday.

The Washington Times-Herald columnist, Count Igor Cassini, 24, has named Ian Montgomery, 38, his brother Colin, 28, and Alexander Calvert, 21, members of the fox-hunting set, as three of his five assailants.

Yesterday the three were held in $2500 each pending action of the Fauquier County grand jury in September.

SUSPECTS HAVE ALIBIS

Meanwhile a search was being conducted today for two other members of the group who lured Cassini from the exclusive Warrenton Country Club, where he was dancing with young Calvert's sister, Jane, abducted and tortured him.

Calvert and both Montgomerys deny participation in the affair, and their attorney, Walter H. Robertson, told Trial Justice B. Richards Glascock, that all three have "good alibis."

Later Robertson asserted there was a good chance of the case being quashed before reaching the grand jury because of what he said was feeling against the Russian nobleman columnist in the hunt country.

According to Cassini, the Montgomerys and Calvert made no secret of the fact that they were angered by items concerning their relatives and appearing in the Cassini column.

Today, at her summer home in

The average time to make a long-distance telephone connection is but one and one-half minutes. Most calls go through while you "hold the line." Friends, no matter how many miles away they may be, are within quick and easy reach. And there's a personal quality to telephoning that's like nothing else except a personal visit. Student Who Jilted Girl, 'Pays Off' Cupid

On agreement to give up everything he owns to the woman who charged he had failed to marry her daughter, Theodore E. Ehouse, 29-year-old Middlesex University student, was set free in Waltham court today.

In return for withdrawal of a $300 larceny complaint against him, Ehouse agreed, counsel announced, to return to Mrs. Antoinette Jenney, of Cleveland, O., all his possessions, which include a $700 car, surgical instruments, books and most of his clothing.

WILL RECOVER $1000

The lawyer said Mrs. Jenney expected to recover about $1000, part of it cash in a Waltham bank with which Ehouse had expected to pay his medical school tuition.

Ehouse was arrested last Friday on Mrs. Jenney's complaint charging him with larceny of $300. She told police she had spent most of her $5000 fortune educating Ehouse on the student's promise that he would marry her daughter, Helen, 25.

Mother and daughter both were in court when Ehouse was brought in from the cell where he had been since Friday, having been unable to post $5000 bail.

GLARED AT STUDENT

Both glared at the defendant as the parties gathered around the judge's bench.

When the brief conference broke up, announcement of the agreement was made, and Mrs. Jenney went direct to a Waltham bank to take possession of Ehouse's bank account.

BALLOT RIGHTS URGED

Heading a protest from recognized minority parties, Governor Saltonstall today called upon the Legislature to preserve their rights through amending a recently adopted law which virtually would have barred their candidates from the ballot.

Under the governor's proposed change, candidates of minority parties which have been represented on the ballot for three preceding elections would be forced to obtain not only 1-10th of 1 per cent of the total gubernatirial vote—approximately 1500 signatures, as contrasted with the approximate 50,000 they would have been forced to secuse under the 3 per cent law. Independent candidates, however, still would be required to obtain the 3 per cent.

In asking for the amendment, Saltenstall said that it had been called to his attention that the 3 per cent law would prevent to existing minority parties "a serious if not insurmountable burden to maintain their existence in future elections."

Girl Injured as Car Strikes Pole

A Dorchester girl was seriously hurt today in a motor car accident which resulted in the smashing of a telephone pole at Lane and Gilbert streets near Watertown square. Electric light and telephone service in the neighborhood was disrupted for half an hour as a result of the crash.

The girl, Ann Stanislowis, 28, of Doris street, Dorchester, went through the windshield when a car, police said was driven by Francis M. Fitzmaurice, 24, of Ripley street, Waltham, skidded and hit the pole.

The girl was taken to Waltham Hospital suffering from severe cuts about the face and neck and a possible broken leg. Fitzmaurice, who was not hurt, was arrested and booked on a charge of drunkenness.

For 20 years he was superintendent of the William Randolph Hearst ranch at San Simeon while Hearst's father, the late Senator George Hearst, was living.

31 FLEE 2-ALARM FIRE IN EVERETT

Thirty-one persons, including 20 small children in six families, fled in their nightclothing when a two-alarm fire threatened to wipe out a wooden dwelling house in Union street, Everett, today.

Flames broke out on a rear porch and roared up the outside of the building as terrified parents and children felt their way through smoke-filled halls to the streets.

So intense was the heat of the blaze that another three-story house was ignited for a few minutes. Wooden buildings in the congested neighborhood were sprayed by firemen, called by the second alarm.

Sparks also ignited a nearby garage roof as flames threatened the entire vicinity.

Marche Florentine, occupant of a top floor apartment in the burning house, was awakened by the sound of the fire, aroused his family, then called to other families as he raced to ring in the alarm.

Joseph Bookie, 17, son of Artei Bookie, living on the second floor, also helped lead children to safety.

In addition to the Florentine and Book families, those driven out included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scott and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Quinton and five children, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Pietok and family and Mr and Mrs. Arthur Thompson and family.

U. S. CUTS SILVER 3 CENTS

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—The Treasury slashed its price for foreign silver today from 43 to 40 cents an ounce.

This action was taken less than 24 hours after the Senate voted to discontinue purchases of foreign silver after July 1.

The Treasury's foreign silver price had been 43 cents per ounce since March, 1938, and had been 45 cents per ounce for two years prior to that cut.

Foreign silver has been purchased by the Treasury since 1934 under an act requiring the Treasury to try to raise the world price of silver to $1.29 per ounce, its coinage value, by acquiring $1 of silver for every $5 of gold in the Treasury.

VICTORY FOR BACKUS IN O.K. ON BUREAUS

The dominantly Republican Ways and Means Committee of the Legislature today dealt a blow to Governor Saltonstall's program for consolidation and abolition of state bureaus by rejecting bills calling for elimination of the securities and smoke abatement divisions.

The committee report was another victory for John H. Backus, director of the securities division, whom the Governor had attempted to oust on charges that Backus had "impugned" the Governor's motive in seeking to abolish the division.

Three members of the committee dissented from the majority report on the smoke abatement bill, while only two dissented on the securities bill report.

Abolition of the post of director of Americanization and immigration was approved by the committee. Dr. Helen I. McGillicuddy, the present director, yesterday had favored abolition of her $3500 a year job as an economy move, even though it meant the loss of her own job.

6 Sons Bear Farmer to Orchard Grave

ALTOONA, Penn., June 27 (AP)—Jacob B. Miller's six sons carried the 71-year-old farmer to the final resting place he had selected, beneath an old apple tree in the Miller orchard.

One of the sons, the Rev. John H. Miller of Springfield, Mass., conducted the services. One of the farmer's three daughters played the organ at the church ceremony.

THREAT TO BOMB N. E. SHIP AT FAIR

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—A 24-hour police guard has been placed over the Yankee, an old sailing ship in the New England exhibit at the New York World's Fair, after receipt of three telephone warnings that the ship would be bombed.

The warnings followed a long series of labor disputes over carpenter work and rigging aboard the square-rigged merchantman. A strike was called two weeks ago by Riggers and Machinery Movers' Local 170, and officials decided to avert further trouble by leaving the rigging unfinished.

The latest dispute arose when exhibit officials called in experienced union ships' carpenters and nautical riggers to speed the work. Officials of Local 170 protested that the Yankee was a dry-land exhibit and the work therefore belonged to a non-nautical union.

The name and flag of Southern Rhodesia have been removed from the colony's exhibit at the fair because its government objected to "depraved and obscene" shows in the nearby amusement area.

The exhibit, a model of Victoria Falls, over which plunges 50,000 gallons of water per minute, is adjacent to the Crystal Palace and Cuban village, where police recently arrested several performers. Other girlie shows are nearby.

Norman Yule, commissioner for the colony, said his government had cabled peremptory orders to remove its flag, name and crest.

Ct. Paper Bans 'Death Cause' in Its Obits

HARTFORD, Conn., June 27 (AP)—The Hartford Courant, the "oldest newspaper in America published daily," editorially announced today that the cause of death would be omitted from its future obituary columns.

The editors explained the new policy was intended as a "contribution to the peace of mind of those who foster gloomy predictions."

Dr. Forbes, Aide Hop Off For Labrador

Accompanied by Joseph Cunningham, former Harvard halfback, Dr. Alexander Forbes, sportsman, geographer and professor of physiology at the Harvard Medical School, today took off once more for his favorite summer stamping ground, Northern Labrador.

In his Waco seaplane, loaded down with cameras, camping equipment, and all the paraphernalia of exploration, he and Cunningham took off from Wollaston bay and headed for Quebec, first scheduled stop on their long flight, much of which spans open ocean.

The pair expected to reach Quebec in time to spend the night. The Waco has a cruising speed of about 100 miles per hour.

Dr. Forbes is no stranger to Labrador. In yachts and airplanes he has been exploring the region's North Coast, mapping and photographing the bleak region first painfully explored by Henry Hudson in his little seagoing cockle shell more than three centuries ago.

In 1938 he was awarded the Charles P. Daly gold medal by the National Geographic Society.

Dr. Forbes and Cunningham expected to contact Dr. Tanner, Finnish explorer, when they reach the Labrador coast. Dr. Tanner has been studying the geology of the region, and Dr. Forbes expects, he said, to use his seaplane to extend the doctor's range of operations.

Bandits Get $15 In 2 Holdups

A two-man crime sortie, with plenty of activity but not much return for the bandits, kept Everett and Somerville police on the go today.

First visitation by the two, dressed in almost identical blue suits, one about 25, the other 30, was at a chain store in Buckman street, Everett.

Robert Leonard, Walnut street, Somerville, the manager, was arranging his display of vegetables in front of the store when the two appeared.

"Get inside," commanded the leader—and they took $8 from his change bag.

A short while later the bandits appeared at a store in Broadway, Somerville, and took $7 in change from George S. Brine, the manager, missing $50 he had in his pocket.

They locked him in the basement.

Hold Hitch-Hiker as $10 Slayer

ST. JOHNS, Mich., June 27 (AP)—Daniel M. Kent, 32, a former convict, was ordered held in the Clinton County jail without bond today, after he had demanded an examination on charges that he killed George G. Hall, Detroit oil promoter, in a $10 hitch hike robbery last Thursday.

A parolee from prison less than four months, Kent confessed in Grand Rapids, Mich., to the shooting of Hall "to get his money" in last Thursday's bizarre highway mystery.

Kent's arrest followed swiftly upon his identification by Hall's companion, blonde Ruby Doty, 22, as the "scar-faced" man who thumbed a ride from them. She recognized his picture in an album of photographs of paroled men.

"He (Hall) talked like he had big money and I needed dough, so I shot him," Chief of Detectives Albert Scheierm of Grand Rapids said Kent narrated.

"I never saw Hall or the woman who was with him before."

In a signed confession, Prosecutor Fred N. Searl said Kent told of placing a 32-calibre pistol "over by Hall's shoulder some place" and firing. The shot penetrated the victim's lung.

Kent told reporters he expected to "get the book"—prison parlance for a life sentence.

"But I can still smile," he said.

Huey Long Machine Revived By Brother

BATON ROUGE, La., June 27 (AP)—Triumphant at last in his tireless quest for state power, Governor Earl Kemp Long today moved swiftly to rehabilitate and save the old Huey Long political machine, badly shaken by "financial irregularity" charges claiming attention of federal authorities.

The new chief executive, brother of the late "Kingfish," promised no let-up in a cleanup of knotted political affairs of the state. Long was sworn in last night following the resignation of Richard W. Leche in the midst of further federal scrutiny of WPA activities here. Leche's term had 11 months to run.

Dr. J. M. Smith

Long's staunch poltical ally and mentor, Mayor Robert S. Maestri of New Orleans, sat beside the new executive as he outlined his plans for occupancy of the ornate gubernatorial mansion his brother built for himself in 1929, high above the Mississippi River.

First of the major mysteries growing out of the poltical upheaval concerned the whereabouts of Dr. James Monroe Smith, genial president of Louisiana State University, a staid educator turned overnight into a fugitive following his disappearance and charges he had embezzled $100,000 in university funds.

State auditors here and in New Orleans brokerage houses today were busy unscrambling Smith's complicated accounts, in which were reported indications he met financial distress by speculating on a falling wheat market.

EDUCATOR SPECULATED

Charles E. Fenner, senior partner of Fenner & Beane, brokers, made the disclosure of Smith's activities in the market. He said the former LSU president had opened operations with his firm in 1936 through an intermediary and under the code name of J. Monroe.

Fenner said the account was closed out 10 days ago, after the firm had refused to accept State University bonds to cover losses in wheat. The account, Fenner said, was paid fully by two checks for $100,000 each.

Authorities here said charges against Smith involved unauthorized issuance of university bonds for use as collateral in market speculation. The university board of administrators gave assurances the institution's educational prestige had not been damaged by Smith's operations.

Fire Gets Lost

LAKEWOOD, N. J., June 27 (AP)—A fire got lost today—and a tearoom burned to the ground.

A Newark motorist, unfamiliar with the winding streets of this resort, spied the blaze and sped a mile and a half until he found a fire box.

"Follow me," he cried as two fire companies arrived. They did, but he couldn't retrace his route. By the time he found the fire again it had burned itself out.

Finds 500,000 Volt X-Ray Kills Cancer

OSLO, Norway, June 27 (AP)—A report that hundreds of cancers have been cured by half-million-volt X-rays after weaker X-rays had failed was made to the Northern Society for Medical Radiology here today by Dr. Albert Soiland of Los Angeles.

He reported on 10 years' work with half-million-volt rays at the Los Angeles Tumor Institute. This curative effect on human beings, he said, is not explained by any of the usual experiments with X-rays.

Doctor Arrested In Horse Doping

On a bench warrant charging him with conspiracy to dope a racehorse at Suffolk Downs, a Roxbury physician was arrested in East Boston court today.

He had appeared there voluntarily as a government witness against three others accused in the same alleged horse doping plot.

The physician, Dr. Frank Rosenowicz of Washington street, Roxbury, was released in his own recognizance pending a continued hearing June 29.

The other three defendants were held in $1000 each.

One of the three, Harold Johnson, 23, of West Springfield street, South End, allegedly told police he and a co-defendant, Arthur Hayes, 39, of West Rutland street, South End, frequently visited Dr. Rosenowicz and discussed with him ways and means of "pepping up" race horses.

BUCKNER QUIZZED ON M'NUTT

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—William P. Buckner, Jr., testified in federal court today that Paul V. McNutt, high commissioner of the Philippines, rejected his request for help in having defaulted Philippine Railway bonds redeemed, because of "his own political situation."

The promoter and Broadway playboy, on trial with four others on mail fraud and conspiracy charges, described a meeting with McNutt in Manila in 1937. Former Senator Harry B. Hawes of Missouri introduced him.

"I asked him (McNutt) what my chances were," Buckner said. "I asked him if he could help me and he told me he couldn't give me any help, referring to his own political situation."

On trial with Buckner are Felipe Buencamino, member of the Philippine Legislature; William J. Gilfeepie and C. Wesley Turner, brokers, and Captain John Stuart Hyde, Hollywood film producer.

The government charges they defrauded holders of the defaulted bonds by dissipating expense funds raised for a bondholders' protective committee and by rigging the price of the bonds.

Buckner went to the Philippines ostensibly to seek redemption of the bonds. Today, under the questioning of his counsel, John Minton, he said:

"I was vague about what I was going to do in the Philippines. My ideas about Manila were chaotic."

Clad in a well-tailored pin stripe suit, the handsome defendant—suitor of movie actress Loretta Young—was completely at ease on the witness stand.

ing blow to the Soviet and Outer Mongolian air force will deter them from further provocation against Manchukuo."

The newspaper Yomiuri called the air battle "the greatest of all time."

Japan lost only three planes, according to the Yomiuri.

While Manchukuoan official quarters have been inclined to belittle the importance of the air fights, Yomiuri said this may be the prelude to hostilities greater than those which occurred in the southeastern corner of Siberia one year ago.

Foreign military attaches in Japan reported today that Japan's best pilots and equipment have been moved into Manchukuo from China proper in the last few months.

This movement, it was reported, was in anticipation of the opening of anti-Soviet operations after the war in China has been reduced to a struggle against guerilla bands.

Foreign circles even heard that some military action between Japan and the Soviets might begin this summer.

Japs Move to Close 2 More Chinese Ports

SHANGHAI, June 27 (AP)—The Japanese navy today announced offensives against two more Chinese ports, warned the United States and other powers to remove their vessels, and declared the ports would be closed to foreign shipping.

A Thursday noon deadline was given for withdrawal of third-power ships, after which Japan would not be responsible for their safety. United States and other foreign nationals were urged by the Japanese to leave the two cities, Wenchow and Foochow.

British authorities answered with a warning that Japanese would be held responsible for any interference with British shipping or endangering of British lives and properties.

The United States position was not made known immediately but observers pointed out that a similar Japanese warning in the case of Swatow was rejected promptly.

Russian Press Gives Little Space to 'Battle'

MOSCOW, June 27 (AP)—Two paragraphs on the second pages of Moscow newspapers described today the air battle on the Outer Mongolian frontier between Japanese and Mongolian-Soviet Russian forces, in which it was claimed 25 Japanese combat planes were shot down.

Such small space devoted to the frontier war made the conflict seem far away to Moscow's man in the street.

Boston Teachers' College Seen Doomed

Eventual abandonment of Boston Teachers College seemed assured today with bowing by the school committee to the economy demands of Mayor Tobin.

The committee reversed previous votes by appropriating $135,048 to operate the college in 1939 and 1940, with no provision for entering class of next fall. It was explained the amount was only to pay for the upper classes and the summer extension course.

BRITAIN BOWS, RED PACT NEAR

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, June 27 (INS)—Because of the admitted possibility of "new German aggression," Great Britain today bowed to Russia's demands and agreed to name Finland, Estonia and Latvia in direct guarantees of independence.

Indignation against Japan's action in Tientsin and other ports of China ran high in official quarters here, yet in delivering the last full measure of capitulation to the Soviet Union, Great Britain showed that her main immediate concern is the Reich, and not the Oriental end of the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis.

SIGN PACT SOON

After the foreign affairs committee of the cabinet agreed to name the Baltic states in guarantees against aggression—in spite of Britain's recognition that Russia's neighbors are unwilling thus to jeopardize their neutrality, the belief prevailed in parliamentary circles that a grand alliance uniting France, Russia and Britain, would be signed within a few days.

The recommendation that the Baltic states be named in guarantees, as Poland, Rumania, Greece and Turkey were mentioned in previous Anglo-French pledges, came from Sir William Seeds, the British ambassador to Moscow.

EXPECTS CRISIS

Britain left no doubt today that a critical situation is expected late this summer. The precautions which Germany is taking to guard her harvest, plus the persistent reports that the day the harvest is in will see a stroke on the Reich's part, found their answer when Britain decided to hold her naval maneuvers in the North Sea in August instead of September.

A New Minister!

LONDON, June 27 (AP)—A Labor member interrupted the House of Commons' discussion of British-Japanese tension in the Far East today to call for "a new prime minister" when Prime Minister Chamberlain refused to make a statement on the situation.

The interruption came after Chamberlain had faced a new barrage of questions on what action Britain planned to halt "intolerable insults" in Atentsin.

F. J. Bellinger, Laborite, one of several questioners, asked whether the prime minister could "give some indication of more definite action by His Majesty's government."

Before Chamberlain could reply J. J. Davidson, Laborite from Glasgow, said:

"A new prime minister."

F. R. AIDES RALLY ON KEY BILLS

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—Hard-pressed at every turn by Republicans and anti-administration Democrats, the President's Congressional leaders were making strenuous efforts today to force through the key provisions of their monetary, relief and neutrality programs.

Although disheartened by surprise Senate votes which sharply curtailed the proposed extension of emergency monetary powers, they were cheered by the action of a Senate appropriations subcommittee in striking from the House-approved relief bill sections opposed by the administration.

In the House, leaders decided to eliminate some controversial provisions of the Bloom neutrality bill but insisted on repeal of the arms embargo against warring nations.

The relief and neutrality measures came up for debate today with tension heightened by the fact that WPA funds will be exhausted Friday night unless a new appropriation is voted.

The administration's monetary powers also will expire at that time unless the Senate and House can agree on legislation to extend them. Both chambers have authorized continuance of the $2,000,000,000 currency stabilization fund, but the Senate yesterday rejected a House provision for extending the President's authority to devalue the dollar.

This section was stricken from the bill by a smooth-working coalition of Republicans and silver-state senators, which then wrote in an amendment requiring the Treasury to pay 77.57 cents an ounce for domestically-mined silver and voted to prohibit future Treasury purchases of foreign silver.

Norton Continues Labor Hearings

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—Chairman Norton, (D) of N. J. said today that she intended to continue House Labor Committee hearings on Wagner Act amendments despite pleas of some members for an immediate vote on proposed revisions.

"Justice would not be served by closing the hearings now or before those who want to defend the act have been heard," Mrs. Norton said.

Drive on UCC Check Forgers

State police and all district attorneys of the state were enlisted today in a drive to stamp out theft and forgery of Unemployment Compensation Commission checks.

The drive was launched by J. Erwin Doyle, director of the UCC who said two convictions were obtained in Boston this week.

"We have set the machinery of the law in operation in these cases," Director Doyle explained, "in order to nip this growing abuse in the bud. We hope to stamp out the practice before it reaches proportions which might be considered dangerous."

Director Doyle said that forgeries are easily detected, as the thieves apparently are making no effort "to duplicate the handwriting of the rightful owners."

Probe $10,000 Brighton Fire

Probe was ordered today of the $10,000 fire which swept the Old Chestnut Hill avenue fire house in Brighton, now used to store lumber and other materials by the Works Progress Administration.

Soon after the fire was discovered, the flames, which had gained considerable headway, broke through the roof and roared 50 feet into the air, attracting a huge throng to the scene and necessitating police reinforcements from intown stations to handle the crowd. As firemen fought the blaze a portion of the roof collapsed but none of the fire-fighters were hurt in the crash.

William McNulty of Ladder 12 suffered a possible fracture of the right ankle when he slipped from a ladder. He was held at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. Other firemen, treated for cuts and allowed to go home were Henry J. Weiz of Engine 33 and Lawrence Morgan of Ladder 26.

Depict Alderman As 'Gay Romeo'

LOS ANGELES, June 27 (AP)—Myrl Alderman was pictured today as an amorous pianist, who liked cultured girls who needed lessons in etiquette.

Mrs. Helen Warne, his first wife, named over his old loves as a witness for Ruth Etting, wife No. 3, in the $150,000 heart balm suit brought against her by the second mate, Alma. One was Dorothy Page.

"Now Dorothy," Mrs. Warne quoted Alderman, "is a cultured girl, where I had to teach Alma which fork to use."

Alderman became interested in a Miss Edna Torrance five years after their marriage, Mrs. Warne recalled. Then, in turn, came Alma, Annabelle and Miss Page. She didn't mention Miss Etting.

"Alma and I had a little tete-a-tete after she and Myrl were married in Tijuana," she said. "She told me they had fallen in love at first sight, but she was so sorry she had to take him away from me. She couldn't understand how I let him go without a fight.

"Late, Alma called me and said she was suspicious that Myrl was going with another woman. Then Myrl 'phoned and said he wanted me to meet his real love. He introduced her to me over the wire. That was Annabelle."

Then Alderman told her he was having dinner two or three nights a week at the apartment of Miss Page. She asked what Annabelle thought. Mrs. Warne quoted him:

"Annabelle knows she is still tops, but is broadminded and knows I have other friends."

Annabelle, mentioned once before in the trial, was not identified. Last week Edward Stockbridge, a guitar player, described her as "a pretty brunette" who leaned a little to the buxom side."

Joe Barros, a musician, brought a chuckle, testifying about a time he and his wife waited at a saloon with Alma for Alderman. When he finally arrived, Barros related, Alma struck him over the head with a loaf of French bread, storming:

"You ——, you've been late ever since I've known you. How do you like that?"

Count Demands 'Tar' Action

Port Washington, Long Island, N. Y., Miss Patterson, publisher of the Times-Herald, said the newspaper will support Casami in his efforts to bring his abductors and assailants to legal taw.

"His mother and I were friends when we were both girls in Washington," the publisher said. "That was about 1904.

"It was through my friendship with his mother that I first became interested in employing the count."

The younger Montgomery, arraigned last, was accompanied to court by his father, who posted a bond offering his farm as security.

It apparently was all a joke to the Montgomerys, and the father warned his son:

visit the United States next year."

MATTER OF TITLE

(Although the wives of other brothers of the King have the title "Royal Highness" and the Duke himself is "His Royal Highness" the Duchess of Windsor is only "Her Highness." Her rank, therefore, is lower than that of the Royal Duchesses. The Duke of Windsor has insisted in the past that his wife be accorded the full title.)

The Windsors now are living in France.

They planned to visit the United States last year but cancelled their trip after American labor criticized the Duke's selection of Charles Bedaux, who headed an industrial efficiency system, to handle arrangements for the tour.

Since the recent visit of the Duke's brother and successor, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth to the United States there has been speculation here whether the Windsors might decide that circumstances were more favorable now for their own visit to the Duchess' homeland.

Socialite Hurt During 'Stunt'

Mrs. Lillian Lowell Griswold Clifton, 30, former Boston socialite, who divorced Merrill Griswold, wealthy Hub lawyer and financier, in 1937, and subsequently wed Henry Talbot De Vere Clifton, millionaire Squire of Lytham, England, suffered severe injuries in a madcap stunt at their ancient estate, Lytham Hall, it was learned here today.

In a "dare-devil" attempt to walk along a narrow window ledge on the second floor of her 16th century home, Mrs. Clifton fell to the ground, suffering a sprained back and fractures of one arm and wrist, according to word received from England. She essayed the "stunt at an early morning hour, while waiting with her husband to watch the dawn.

"It was just one of those stunts that didn't come off,' her husband was quoted as saying.

Early Aid Urged in TB Cases

Immediate treatment of [illegible] found [illegible] tuberculosis [illegible] Dr. Henry F. Vaughan, [illegible] of the state department of [illegible] commissioner of [illegible] Dr. Vaughan [illegible] Boston [illegible] Massachusetts [illegible] Medical Society [illegible] Boston.

When persons with early tuberculosis are found, they should immediately be sent to a sanatorium," Dr. Vaughan said.

"This is necessary because it helps to bring about, in most cases, an early cure of the disease and prevents the spread of germs from the individual to the family and community at large.

"At the same time communities would be enabled to save several thousands of dollars by early treatment because persons found in advanced stages of tuberculosis stay in a hospital twice as long as the persons found in the early stages."

That means that we shall insure every boat (and its cargo) of any foreign power that the Maritime Commission or the President may "think" is friendly to us which sails to or from an American port with American merchandise — even if the merchandise is CONTRABAND and the boats are sailing seas marked out by England's and France's enemies as "war areas."

As a "starter," $[illegible] of the taxpayers' money was "discussed" in this enterprise to save AT OUR EXPENSE—the British, French, and maybe the "friendly" COMMUNIST NAVY, from losses in their ages long game of making the world safe for themselves.

He could, for instance, protect American war vessels from entering [illegible] "war areas," but, under the proposed act the boats, cargoes and even the lives and personal effects of British, French, Russian, Japanese, Turkish and Greek boats (all "friendly powers") would be INSURED BY U. IS THIS THE WAY we are to "quarantine" ourselves against the European dictatorships?—by becoming an American dictatorship and by guaranteeing the foreign ships of foreign dictatorships [illegible] every cargo, American merchandise even if these bottoms deliberately sail right into the teeth of the enemy?

Is this an American Administration in Washington seeking [illegible] "quarantine" [illegible] FOREIGN WARMONGERS to [illegible] the blood and treasure of the American people?

AUSTEN LAKE

Galento Promises Joe Real Hot Time

NEW YORK, June 27—I have seen all the heavyweight fight camps of the last ten years—Dr. Weir's slam-sanatorium at Pompton Lakes where Harlem's Hotsy Folk come to worship their dark angel of destruction; and Speculator's Toy-Town amid a wilderness of hills that tumble away in purple haze and forests of pine and fir come down to meet a mirror-lake.

AUSTEN LAKE

Orangeburg, N. Y., where Jack Sharkey trained among blue-bottle flies and sour swamp-smells; and Long Branch, N. J., where Welsh Tommy Farr spat spite and eyed abhorrence at everybody like a poker-playing cowboy; and Grand Beach, Mich., where Jimmy Braddock sweltered under a canopy of scrub maples and lived a woodchopper's life in tumbled down barracks.

But I have never seen the like of Madame Bey's Homicide Hall which lies on a sideslope of a sun-blistered hill near Summit, N. J., and where that fistic Falstaff, Tony Galento, is conditioning his suet and lard for—what? Perhaps for a later seance with a surgeon or for the gambling chance at the world's titular jackpot.

It's a weird setup. To begin with Madame Bey, [illegible] camp [illegible] and featured a Police-[illegible] a ghost eye, a hallucinated Turkish [illegible] and recommended the case of Ab[illegible] Hamid as [illegible] Mel[illegible] Asylum.

THAT GIVES YOU A WORKING IDEA. For now Madame Bey runs her Arnica Arms, or Muscle Manor or Hacienda of Homicide for professional pugs, both great and small. She rents her unwanting section of real estate as a fight farm.

There is a rambling house full of Victorian trimming. There is a [illegible] with a rickety indoor ring and a gallery of flop-eared fighters pictures. And out to yond, where the slope makes a natural amphitheater stands a platform under a shingled roof.

The surrounding country is a mosquito flat, full of witch grass fields where nature in its most inartistic mood seems to have thrown together its left-over scraps after fashioning the rest of the world.

The only place like it is the hill top hideout of the "Holy Ghost And Us" society where Harry Gates, the Dartmouth cultist, retired last Autumn to save his soul from football.

He demonstrated a fearsome [illegible] a rubbery contortion that was half gargoyle and half cheese-[illegible].

"Fellst I'll skeer Louis wit' dis and den kay-o 'em wit' dat." He shook a bunch of [illegible] fist.

"I'll give 'em me one two," he announced, illustrating the "one," a flambeing upper-cut, and then the "two," a sharp upward jerk of a pudgy knee where Louis' groin might be tomorrow night.

North River Ideal Spot for Salmon, Trout Anglers

By DARK MONTREAL

North River, which I have been ballyhooing as a potential great salmon river (as once it was) continues to produce fish in support of the theory. More salmon have been taken there, also some big rainbow trout and some big brown trout, all in the tidal waters.

The steelhead trout of the west coast, running to great size, are nothing but rainbows that have gone down into the salt water.

Presumably the seed trout in the North River have come down from the feeder streams of the lakes we stocked. I saw a rainbow four in the river. Bernard Fahey of Norwell found it again a year of the most successful of the North River salmon and a booster for the stream.

If the club fish at a game day preserve—and I hope they do—the progress of this water experiment can be stimulated greatly by it.

A stranger has to fish with Mon Pratt to get the full value of cast and reel. Pratt, whose home is in Hingham, is a fisherman for fun. He fishes for it. Off Martin Point Sunday he caught a striped bass on every cast. Next week he and Commodore Conrad Hall Lee of the Boston Yacht Club will be [illegible]

Striped bass are showing a little better. Not so many fish but larger ones. July should bring a heavy run that will last into fall if the forerunners are worth their salt. At Buzzards Bay Buttermilk off Hog Island and in the Weweantit fishing improved Friday and Saturday.

Sunday and yesterday were bad days for the angler. The easterly wind had stirred up the bottom so there was no sport fishing at all and something had a similar effect on the ponds.

I saw an interesting sight Sunday two men anchored in shallow water in a Buzzards Bay pond catching three-inch yellow perch schooling there. They were using expensive fly rods and worms for bait. Each luckless perch caught would be thrown 20 or 30 feet back in the lake after being unhooked. When I remonstrated, one said:

"What the heck! They're no damn good."

And when I suggested they move into deeper water and try to catch something that was some damned good the other said:

"Nothing out there. We already fished it."

Sometimes I wish I had a warden's badge.

Out of the Creel

Dark Montreal — You left out some trout bass when you said Stockbridge bowl was the only lake out of the crowd is my motto. Also, I don't agree with you on letting the bait run without setting the hook while using shiners for bait. With frogs yes, but on shiners I set the hook when the bass strikes and I think I lose as small a percentage as anybody.

You made no mention of crawfish, which are great bait in some ponds, especially in western Massachusetts. And add to your list of killing flies the Sanborn or Yellow Tiger. I wouldn't give two split shot for one fly in your list, that Parmachenee Belle. A lot of people like it because it's got a nice name.

WARREN CARMODY.

BROOKLYN GUESTS OF BEES

"We're not a seventh place club, and we'll prove it shortly," beamed Case. "If Tony Cuccinello and Jim Turner and Danny MacFayden and Lefty Sullivan are ready for action by next week, you'll see us climbing the ladder. That's a promise."

After [illegible] Tony Cuccinello [illegible] of Bill Posedel and [illegible] of Max West and Hugh Mulcahy were expected to be Jess Dobbert.

BASEBALL

By MICKEY COCHRANE

Speaker Gave Signals With Gum

With Ty Cobb at bat, the base runner spent a lot of time diving back into first base, but he would frequently find himself being chased around to third base in the wake of many base hits to right field.

Tris Speaker had a strange sign for the wind-up, the hit-and-run order. He always chewed gum and he would never [illegible] as he stepped into the box. When we saw his jaw move or his teeth flash we knew he had got the nod and run.

Art Fletcher

One pitch out and a batter throw-out, and Tris would change the sign to something else.

In a hunt-and-hit and run situation, the sign spy and the spectator too can watch the third base coach and the hitter. When a sign goes up it will be relayed from the third base coach to the batter.

There are many, many signs and countless ways of giving them and countless ways of passing on the information once you have it.

You can set [illegible] with a wink, a scratch of head, hand. Remember that game we spoke of where Eddie Collins stole all the [illegible] behind and [illegible] signs and yet we couldn't beat 'em. Cute?

A pitcher is up against that sort of thing every time a runner gets on base. As soon as the [illegible] around to second they'd begin to wig-wag the stolen signals to the bench for Mr. Mack or to me later if he wanted them.

Simmons and Foxx [illegible] them. They figured that knowing beforehand relaxed them [illegible] and lessened their effectiveness.

When you've picked off a [illegible] two, the thrill will come and you practise it. Perhaps you'll [illegible] as clever at it as Artie Fletcher, [illegible] years Yankee third-base coach [illegible] right sign thief.

SMART OBSERVER

Arthur is always ready to fuse the opposition with his wit, [illegible] meanwhile stay on your toes [illegible] out of your head if you [illegible] once.

The hit-and-run is most effective [illegible] started on the third pitch of the two-and-nothing pitch. [illegible] where Eddie Collins stole all the [illegible] behind and [illegible]

Mickey's Story Thus Far:

Mickey Cochrane relates his climb through school, college and the minors to major league stardom. He details many vital points of big league play, both offensive and defensive, and tells sidelights of the great stars' careers.

He talks of the Big Inning, and goes on to the hit and run strategy. Now the story proceeds.

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK, June 27—Persons close to Mike Jacobs and who have the interest of the boxing game at heart have urged the promoter to postpone the proposed Joe Louis-Lou Nova bout, now planned as a September feature, until next year . . . It is felt that another year of experience will enable Nova to have a better chance of winning from the "Brown Bomber" than if the contest were held this year.

Funny thing about this Louis-Nova fight talk is that nobody seems to consider the possibility of Tony Galento winning the championship from Louis tomorrow night . . . If "Two Ton" Tony should click with a victory punch, it would be the biggest upset in the history of the ring . . . Every fight expert would be left out on the end of the well-known limb . . . Jimmy Braddock, Lew Tendler and the few others who have declared Galento may win have been accused of coming to the aid of Mike Jacobs' ballyhoo forces.

During the past week there has been an organized effort to tear down Louis and build up Galento in the press releases from the office of the Twentieth Century Club . . . Galento could make the press agents look very good by cracking Louis on the chin with one of his Sunday left hooks . . . The betting is anywhere from 10 to 1 to 12 to 1 on Louis with very little money being wagered . . . I look for the champion to be in splendid condition when he enters the ring . . . Joe always puts up a good fight . . . Galento, however, will have clear vision from both of his eyes at the start of the bout which is more than can be said of John Henry Lewis who faced the "Brown Bomber" blind in his left eye . . . Tony will also have the punch that Bob Roper lacked.

Mike Jacobs would be willing to settle on a gate of $400,000 . . . His original estimate was $1,000,000 but a lot of things have happened since Mike set that figure for the title bout . . . With the moving picture and radio rights, Louis' end on a gate of $400,000 will hit $200,000, while Galento will drag down around $75,000 . . . How many beers could one buy with $75,000?

Talk Racing Waiting for Title Bout

WALTER ST. DENNIS of the Twentieth Century Club's ballyhoo forces talked racing as he greeted out-of-town newspapermen here for the championship bout . . . St. Dennis, like other New Yorkers, is amazed at the way the attendance figures and mutuel handle has held up at New England horse and dog tracks.

"When Jersey opens to parimutuels records you will see some new highs," predicted St. Dennis . . . "Jersey has a big area with tremendous population to draw on . . . When Jersey gets underway, there will be difficulty getting suitable horses with so many tracks in operation . . . These people who own breeding farms should do very well with such a big demand for horses."

Billy Duffy, who managed Primo Carnera, Ace Hudkins and other famous boxers, is in the racing picture . . . Duffy has powerful friends in Jersey who are anxious that he secure a license to operate a track . . . Billy has the necessary racing contacts to make any track in which he might become interested a success.

Many of the big Jersey bookmakers are also trying to make race track connections . . . They realize that their business will suffer heavy losses as a result of the introduction of the pari-mutuels, and they would like to get in on the ground floor of the promotion end of the business.

HAGUE IS BOSS OF RACING

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City came through the fight for the pari-mutuels as the czar of racing . . . He will decide how many tracks there will be and where they will be located . . . He will also make the final decision as to who gets the various licenses.

I agree with Damon Runyon when he says Hague is a bit high in his estimate of $5,000,000 in State revenue from racing . . . If Jersey gets $2,000,000 from racing, it will do well . . . That is what Massachusetts derives from racing, but in the Bay State there are dog as well as horse tracks.

Wonderland Park at Revere continues to be the most successful racing plant considering invested capital in this country . . . New Yorkers are at a loss to understand the handles at Wonderland which have been going between $175,000 and $207,000 . . . In Florida, a dog track considers it is doing well if it handles $30,000 a night . . . The Jersey horse interests will oppose any effort to legalize dog racing in that State.

With pari-mutuel betting in Jersey, everybody believes it is only a matter of time when New York will approve this form of wagering . . . The present bookmaking system at the New York tracks cannot hope to compete against the pari-mutuels in Jersey . . . The $2 bettor likes the pari-mutuels where he can play a horse to show if he wishes . . . At pari-mutuel tracks it has been found, according to Mort Mahony, that more than 65 per cent. of the bettors only risk $2 on a race . . . The record handles are made possible by increased attendance figures.

'Tony in 3 Rounds,' Says Mrs. Galento

ORANGE, N. J., June 27 (AP)—Tony's wife, Mary Galento, who's just as grave as her prize-fighting husband is clownish, and who, incidentally, is the real boss of the Galento family, has tomorrow night's title bout with Joe Louis all figured out:

"Tony can't and won't lose this fight. He'll knock Mr. Louis out in the third round."

That's all. There are no ifs, ands or buts about it. The third round. A knockout.

WILL BUY A HOME

"Then," said white-aproned Mrs. Galento, a plump, housewifely person, "Tony's going to retire as world champion.

"We've got an 11-acre place picked out in West Orange and we're going to start building our home on it right after the fight. Tony's a home-husband, and he likes chickens. We'll raise chickens on the place, and we'll have a flower garden.

"There'll be an annuity for Junior (14-months-old Galento heir), and Tony won't fight any more."

Mrs. Galento, who, unlike her heavyweight champion challenging husband, shies from appearing in the public prints, will be on hand in the Yankee Stadium tomorrow night to see "Tony do it."

She hasn't missed any of his fights in two years. She never worries about him when he's in the ring.

"Toney, he can take care of himself," she says.

GLOVE OVER FACE

Mr. and Mrs. Galento have talked the whole thing out, and have planned it so Tony will come out of his corner in a rush, right glove over his face and with the lethal left poised midway between his waist and the floor.

From that point on it's all up to Tony, but, says his wife of four years, "we're not thinking of losing; that's how sure we are. I've bet $100 on Tony to win at 8 to 1."

Teddy Williams Saves Grove's Bacon } Jim Tabor Draws 3-Day Suspension

By BILL GRIMES

Young Teddy Williams is the fair-haired boy with Uncle Mose Grove, after his "four for four" yesterday . . . While Uncle Mose was blanking the Nats, lanky Ted drove in two runs and the odd tally was scored on Boze Berger's fine two-bagger.

Berger did a nice job filling in for Jim Tabor, who drew a suspension "for the good of the club" . . . With Joe Cronin at the helm, Washington is a tough spot for ball players to stray from the straight and narrow . . . In 1935, Roy Johnson did a nose dive off the water wagon, wound up in the hoosegow, drew a suspension and was shipped back home . . Tabor was suspended yesterday and is back home.

The annual openmitted foursome tournament of the Commonwealth Country Club will be held tomorrow . . . It will be a selected drive - alternate shot affair and there will be two gross and two nets prizes . . . Dan Scott, who is chairman of the golf committee at Commonwealth expects a large field, including Mr. and Mrs. H. Warren Beard, who defended their club pair mixed foursome championship Sunday at Dedham.

Fred Corcoran

TOUGH ON HEAFNER

Freddie Corcoran, tournament manager of the P. G. A., drove from Scranton, Pa., to Worcester with Lloyd Mangrum, Los Angeles, Cal., and Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. C.

After an all-night ride, they arrived in the Heart of the Commonwealth at 7:30 yesterday morning . . . Heafner couldn't stand the gaff and withdrew after the morning round but Mangrum went through 36 holes and posted a 72—74—146, five strokes behind Byron Nelson, the leader, at the half way mark . .

Gordie Drillon, the Toronto Maple Leaf right winger, is back in town for today . . . He spent a weekend at Exeter, N. H., and will leave for his home in Moncton, N. S., tonight . . . He has been visiting in Toronto, where he attended Turk Broda's wedding . . . He says that Reg Hamilton, the Maple Leaf defense man, plans to get married next month and that he (Gordie) will go off the deep end in the fall . . .

Of the 62 players that qualified at Worcester, 17 are amateurs . . . A very fine showing against such a fast field . . . Byron Nelson will be the most popular champion that held the national open title in a decade . . .

He's not much of a conversationalist but he's very regular and his personality will make him many friends and plenty of the old do-re-me . . . Dr. George Tully, the old Dartmouth end of Oberlander to Tully fame, is practising medicine in Worcester and is now a gall addict.

RING'S ARM BAD

Charlie MacAndrew announced that the Burlington, Vt., Country Club, where he is pro, will sponsor a $1500 open August 20 and 21 . . . Many of the top ranking pros will make the Burlington open on their way back from the Canadian open at St. John, N. B. . . .

Walter Ring, who was at Worcester, is carrying his left arm in a sling . . . He tripped and fell recently in the Grand Central Station in New York and dislocated his shoulder . . .

Stan Yudicky

Johnny Thoren, Woodland, did a great job in the first round of the open when he posted a 69 which included two 6s . . .

He got into trouble in the P. M. but managed to come up with a 75, which isn't to be sneezed at over the Worcester course . . .

The attendance at the Boston College football coaches school was a disappointment . . . With instructors of the Dutch Meyer, Frank Leahy, Carl Snavely, Ed McKeever, Johnny Druze type, the enrollment should have reached 150 but only about half that number laid it on the line . . .

Henry McIvor, formerly of Brae Burn, is off to a fine start at Bald Peak, N. H., where he is the professional . . . And, Joe Fardy, another Burt Nicoll protege, is making good for Harry Bowler at the Marlborough Country Club . . . Stan Yudicky, the old Dartmouth end, has received an appointment to the Mayo Clinic . . .

Ben Loving, Longmeadow, measures up with the best in the field at Worcester . . . He proved it in the second round when he carded a 69 . . . But for a 5-6 finish, Joe Lynch, Blue Hill, a former state amateur champion, would have been in second place starting the third round of the state open this morning . . .
